Submitting Work: To submit your work, please send it to CanyonVoicesLitMag@gmail.com. Be sure to attach all the work you wish to submit to the e-mail. You may include an author biography and a photo, which will be included on your page should your work be chosen for publication. Because we are affiliated with Arizona State University, we uphold academic standards. If your work is accepted we reserve the right to make minor superficial changes (ie: grammar, punctuation, etc.). You will be contacted should your work require more than basic edits. We accept simultaneous submissions.

Explicit Materials: Because this is a university magazine, submissions containing sexually explicit material and explicit language will be accepted and determined eligible for publishing depending on the context of the explicit material in the work. Material deemed inappropriate or unnecessarily explicit will be summarily rejected.

Reading Period: Our editors read submissions in August, September and October for the fall issue. The reading period re-opens in January, February and March for the spring issue.

Please note, if your submissions do not follow our submission guidelines we reserve the right to not accept your work for review. If you have any questions about your submissions and if they follow our guidelines, please e-mail us right away so we can answer any questions as soon as possible so you will be able to make the submission deadlines.

Still have a question? Send us an e-mail at CanyonVoicesLitMag@gmail.com.
