Human trafficking is a lucrative industry representing an estimated $32 billion per year in international trade. Every year, thousands of men, women and children are victims of traffickers, in their own countries and abroad. The focus of this course is slavery and human trafficking, sexual slavery, forced labor, the extraction of organs and tissues, and surrogacy. Students will investigate issues and propose solutions for Challenging Heights, an NGO in Ghana, West Africa, that grapples with the prevention, rescue, and education of human trafficking victims, and propose possible solutions. At the end of the course, students will travel to Ghana and participate in an intense seminar offered by the Challenging Heights staff, experience human trafficking and its effect on the Ghanaian community and country firsthand, and work with staff to implement proposed solutions.
