Intern amongst asylum seekers abroad

International Asylum Seeking in Greece

May 10 – May 24, 2017
Students will have the opportunity to intern directly with NGO’s in Athens, Greece, to provide assistance to smuggled and trafficked peoples fleeing Syria, Libya, Iraq, and countries where there is war, political and sectarian violence, and/or extreme poverty. Our on-the-ground provider and a local PhD student from the University of the Aegean will accompany students to facilitate working at local centers where refugees are applying for asylum within European Union countries.

Program Fee: $2,285
The program fee includes: apartment-style housing, transportation passes, internship placement services, daily lunches, ASU faculty support, and international health insurance.
